Long Text | Skipped: 54 | Answered: 13 (19.4%)

Makes sense doing the work at night as it limits traffic bank ups along with all the people and cones required to manage traffic
Contribution 13 of 13 | 24 April, 2020

Don't have so many road works going at once. There is nothing worse then driving to and from work with road works happening every where you go
Contribution 12 of 13 | 24 April, 2020

Max 1 per month
Contribution 11 of 13 | 23 April, 2020

Maybe just Maine routes
Contribution 10 of 13 | 22 April, 2020

Max 2-3 times a year. You need to consider the working people that will be on these shifts. I agree we should be improving the way we work as a city if we can, but we need to create decent jobs and opportunities. If they are contracted jobs, they should ...
Contribution 9 of 13 | 21 April, 2020

It depends on the situation how long I'd be OK with it going on for but as long as the noise was limited to what was necessary I am OK with night work. For example sometimes people outside talking loudly is more disruptive that the hum of machines so as l...
Contribution 8 of 13 | 21 April, 2020

Night work should be used for busy atrial roads, new 3 waters pipework or urgent maintenance. Smaller less used roads, day time work would suffice Better planning with other services required. Once excavations, removal or redundant services, installation ...
Contribution 7 of 13 | 21 April, 2020

I prefer that people paid to make decisions do so without continual consultation which just wastes time and money to satisfy a few moaners who will just move to the next thing they can complain about! Having experienced at least two occasions where night...
Contribution 6 of 13 | 21 April, 2020

We see quite a bit of activity on Rocks Road (as it’s the state highway and not controlled by NCC). It seems to go smoothly and safely, and creates very little obstruction. Our road attracts its share of “speed enthusiasts ” so it might be a good traffic...
Contribution 5 of 13 | 21 April, 2020

This survey is a brilliant idea and an easy way for NCC to gain very regular, direct feedback from the community. Thank you.
Contribution 4 of 13 | 20 April, 2020

Night works is a great way to reduce traffic issues however smaller activities should be done during the day bigger more disruptive activities during the night but where possable the noisiest activities done say before 11 and um 6 as much as possable and ...
Contribution 3 of 13 | 16 April, 2020

The ability to complete works at night is critical both for value for money infrastructure construction and minimising disruption to daily lives of road users.
Contribution 2 of 13 | 16 April, 2020

Great idea!
Contribution 1 of 13 | 16 April, 2020

9. Do you have any other thoughts you wish to share about our road maintenance or repair work?

Long Text | Skipped: 53 | Answered: 14 (20.9%)

They did this (night repairs) on Talbot Street outside my last house and the effects on our sleeping was drastic, more than I thought, so I wouldn't want that again.
Contribution 14 of 14 | 6 May, 2020

Sleep is one of the most important part of life. Disturbed sleep can cause headache, reduce the productivity and increase the chance of accidents . Hence Works are to be done in the daytime. But if the noise pollution can be controlled by putting speci...
Contribution 13 of 14 | 4 May, 2020

Generally when work happens in the street the equipment gets parked on the grass verge right by my bedroom. It’s incredibly noisy and disruptive
Contribution 12 of 14 | 25 April, 2020

Inconsiderate and not healthy to arbitrarily require work on a night shift.
Contribution 11 of 14 | 24 April, 2020

An environmentally friendly future will require inner city living. This is the reason why we live so close to the CBD: we can shop and go out on foot or with a bike. My partner also works in town. Our car usage is very small. The town is already very nois...
Contribution 10 of 14 | 24 April, 2020

Too much noise and not fair to make road workers have to do unecessary night shift work which is bad for their health.
Contribution 9 of 14 | 23 April, 2020

Surly people can slow down for road works through the day, this road is noisy enough at night without road maintenance. Also worry about the workers
Contribution 8 of 14 | 22 April, 2020

Maintenance on Vanguard seems to be ongoing because of the busyness of the thoroughfare. More large trucks are now also using it. Absolutely opposed to nights works and I'm surprised it's even being contemplated.
Contribution 7 of 14 | 21 April, 2020

We have young children and so do several of our neighbours. It’s hard enough to keep my kids (one specifically) sleeping through the night. It would be best not to have another challenge to that.
Contribution 6 of 14 | 21 April, 2020

Silence is golden. Enough said.
Contribution 5 of 14 | 21 April, 2020

The noise of roadworks at night would be very disruptive to sleep
Contribution 4 of 14 | 21 April, 2020

People need to sleep and surely the cost of paying someone to work at night would be far more. Show respect, spend other people money wisely and be kind.
Contribution 3 of 14 | 20 April, 2020

Not sure if you need more people, or just more workers
Contribution 2 of 14 | 20 April, 2020

Please take into consideration those who reside in the city, this is often overlooked. We have enough issues with leaf blowing and road sweepers at 4.30am along with the usual noise of the city nightlife.
