Wheelie bins – really good!

Thanks Nelson – you’ve done a great job adjusting to the new recycling wheelie bin service. This is Week One for collections so please check the sticker on the side of the bin. If it says Week One – make sure you get your bin out on the day specified on the sticker. Glass still goes in the blue crate and it goes out on the same day too. Make sure it’s all out by 7am. If you use Nelmac bags and bins – they are collected on your recycling day too. If you use a different service provider, please check with them.

New Council sworn in

A new Council has been sworn in and will now lead our city for the next three years.

Mayor Rachel Reese commences her second term as Mayor, with four new Councillors around the table.

Cr Paul Matheson is appointed to the role of Deputy Mayor, continuing in the role that he held in the last term, and new Committee Chairs and membership have also been established.

“Paul and I bring a different range of skills to our roles which is very important in any successful team. I look forward to working closely with him to build a strong council that continues to listen to, and work with, our community.”

“It’s an exciting time at the table, with an enthusiastic and capable team of councillors, ready to work together to make Nelson an even better place,” Mayor Reese says.

The Mayor has established a new committee, Sport and Recreation, in addition to the four committees set up in 2013 – Community Services, Works and Infrastructure, Governance and, Planning and Regulatory.

“Committees were reintroduced in my first term as Mayor in order to streamline information and decision making and to make Council more understandable and accessible to the public,” Mayor Reese says.

“The addition of Sport and Recreation as a new committee shows our commitment to this important area, and will allow us to work more closely with the community and to plan strategically,” Mayor Reese says.

“I am pleased to see some returning Councillors step up into the position of Committee Chair, and I look forward to working with the new faces around the table too, some of whom bring important skills and experience to the table and in their new roles.”

“I’m looking forward to a busy three years with some exciting work in front of us. Our focus will be on excellence across all we do to ensure we use resources wisely and deliver outcomes that support the wellbeing of our community now and into the future.”

Nelson's new home for football

Trafalgar Park has been a hive of activity recently, in the lead up to the football season, which has now kicked off.

Nelson hasn't had a national league side since the early 90s. But with Tasman United's introduction into the expanded Stirling Sports Premiership for the 2016/17 season, Trafalgar Park has become home to the new side, hosting excited fans and players in pre-season match warm ups.

Tasman United General Manager, Clive Beaumont, says the Park is an ideal home base for the new team.

"We have a great opportunity to continue the momentum of our sport with the addition of Tasman United in the top league."

"Trafalgar Park is a great spot, right in the heart of the city, and with football being the number one sport in the region, it's great to be able to host this level of football here again."

Mayor Rachel Reese says Trafalgar Park is the perfect home for football, and is pleased to see Tasman United field a team in the premiership league.

"Having a Nelson football side return to the national league is exciting, and to host them at Trafalgar Park is a real treat. It's a great location, so close to the city."

"Top level sports events are continuing to make their way to Nelson and we will continue to show our support and enthusiasm for hosting sports events in our region."

The first premiership match will be held at Trafalgar Park on 13 November with a total of nine matches to be played in Nelson, ahead of the final rounds in March 2017.

POOL OWNERS CHECKLIST

If you have a swimming pool on your property, you can expect an audit visit approximately every three years. In between audits, it is a good idea to do your own regular checks to ensure your pool is safe and secure and complies with regulations.

- ✓ My pool fence or barrier is at least 1.2 metres high all the way around the pool.
- ✓ My pool gates and doors open away from the pool, self-close and latch from 150 millimetres and the latch is at least 1.5 metres high or can only be accessed by reaching over the gate.
- ✓ I have no openings in the pool barrier greater than 100 millimetres.
- ✓ I have a backflow preventer on the tap I use for maintaining my pools water level so I don't risk contaminating my household water supply.
- ✓ I don't have anything climbable closer than 1.2 metres from the fence or barrier. (Check over the boundary fence to make sure your neighbour hasn't inadvertently created a ladder by stacking things against the fence, or do the trees need a prune?)
- ✓ I only have pool related activities in the pool area. (It's not a good place to plant my vegetable garden or store the kid's toys).

Remember that 'take home and pop up' pools with a water depth of over 400mm must meet the requirements of the Fencing of Swimming Pools Act 1987.

For more information, contact the Pool Compliance Officer or visit nelson.govt.nz (search term = swimming pool consents) to read the pool guide and find out what else you can do to make sure your pool is secure.

Mayor's Message

What an October! Thank you to the people of Nelson for allowing me the privilege of continuing to serve our region as your mayor. The election result affirms my commitment and enthusiasm in leading Nelson and I'm looking forward to a busy end to the year.

Reflecting on October, I couldn't have asked for a better end to my first term as mayor. What an honour to acknowledge Liam Malone, the outstanding New Zealander and athlete, with a civic reception at the Church Steps, where he was presented with the Key to the City of Nelson. Thank you to the thousands of people who came out to support this event. He is one of the finest young champions I have met. Sporting success continued over Labour Weekend with Tasman United's debut in the Stirling Sports Premiership, giving our region the chance to compete in football at the top national level and I'm looking forward to our first home game at Trafalgar Park on 13 November when Tasman take on Hawkes Bay.

Over the weekend, the Makos took on Canterbury in the Mitre 10 Cup final. Finals rugby is always exciting, and even more so when your home side runs out onto the field. While it wasn't meant to be, with Canterbury too strong this time around, it was still a hard fought game. I look forward to seeing the team build on their momentum to come back next year with fire in their belly, ready to win that national title for the first time.

Of course, the Arts have also been in the spotlight over October too. Here's just a snapshot. The Governor-General, Her Excellency The Rt Hon Dame Patsy Reddy, honoured us with her presence to open The Suter Gallery. Occasionally, I visit a building that is a taonga, a treasure, and The Suter is just that rare thing. To all involved, including the ratepayers of Nelson, congratulations on an outstanding result.

The Suter was just the right place to launch this year's Adam Chamber Music Festival – recognised as the premier music festival in New Zealand – this has gone from strength to strength, and tickets are selling fast.

The Nelson School of Music Redevelopment is underway with a $1.5m government grant to support heritage preservation and to top it off, the Nelson Arts Festival has delighted us again showcasing some excellent talent.

Meanwhile, the Brook Sanctuary celebrated the completion of its pest-proof fence, Nelson Mountain Biking Club negotiated access to Wairoa Gorge, and Nelson Nature continues to bring back the birds and engage our schools in conservation projects.

Of course, a new Council term has now begun and we have welcomed four keen new councillors to the table, Mel Courtney, Bill Dahlberg, Mike Rutledge, and Stuart Walker. Together they bring a wealth of experience and plenty of energy to serve the people of Nelson.

There certainly is a lot going for this place we call home. Long may it continue to thrive and let's remember to celebrate aspiration, hard work and success.

Environmental Score Cards for 2015/16

Council's Environmental Score Cards for 2015/16 show some steady improvements in air and water quality for our city.

Council is working hard to improve our environment, and tracks its progress through annual monitoring of Bathing Water, River and Stream Health and Air Quality.

Council projects that contribute to this improvement are Nelson Nature, Project Maitai, Woodburner Better Burning and many others.

People who use their woodburners wisely, don't let anything but rainwater in to our stormwater drains and get involved with streamside planting projects are also making a great contribution to a better Nelson. These efforts are reflected in steady improvements in annual monitoring results.

River and Stream Health

The 2015 annual water quality results for river and stream health reflect a long-term improvement in water quality.

Rivers and streams have important natural and cultural values, and supply water for drinking, farming and horticulture, recreational and industry use, so Council is working with the community to make improvements.

Our water quality is affected by storm events, pollutants and sediment, human activity and wildlife. Water that is too warm, contains a lot of sediment, or has high levels of bacteria or heavy metals will result in falling populations of river life, and be unsuitable for us to use.

Four of Council's stream monitoring sites showed improvements in the population of river life they are supporting, indicating that stream health is improving. Biodiversity surveys were undertaken for the first time in the Whangamoia area and included the first recording of a bluegill bully.

Recreational Bathing Water Quality

**Water samples were collected in both wet and dry weather and readings may be higher after rain – Council advises no swimming after heavy rain.*

Swimming water quality at Nelson's rivers and beaches is generally very good, with occasional high bacteria levels – usually after rain.

The Maitai river at Collingwood Street bridge is starting to improve in quality – this year there were three red alerts compared to six last year, although a health warning is still in place. There is also a health warning not to swim in the Wakapuaka River at Paremata Flats, as water quality here still needs to improve.

Air Quality

Air quality monitoring showed an ongoing improvement with just one exceedance for the year, in Airshed A.

Air quality in Nelson is affected by particle emissions (PM10) from woodburners, industrial activity and transport. Nelson is divided in to four airsheds, and air quality varies between these airsheds.

Air quality is measured against National Environment Standards (NES). Airshed A (Nelson South) has seen a steady reduction in emissions since 2001. Airsheds B1 (Tahunanui) and B2 (Stoke) also improved with no NES exceedances. Airshed C (Nelson City) had no exceedances but did show a minor increase in emissions.

Council works with Victory School to establish new Meteorological Station

Council have worked with Victory Primary School to establish a new meteorological station at The Broads playing fields.

Students from Victory School looking at the new weather station equipment with Science teacher Sterling Cathman, Joy Oakly, (sister of PJ Lamb), and NIWA technician Ralph Dickson.

The new station is a relocation of the meteorological station previously sited in St Vincent Street, which was installed in 2000. During 2012 a new 10 metre tall industrial building was constructed adjoining the met station, potentially compromising the integrity of meteorological information from the site, hence the need to look for another site.

At about the same time, Victory Primary School received a bequest from a past student, Peter Lamb, to purchase and install a meteorological station for the school. Victory Primary School and Council agreed to establish the meteorological station using the mast purchased by the school and hardware and software owned by Council.

After searching for a suitable location near Victory Primary School, Council staff were successful in negotiating an agreement with Nelson College to install the station on land owned by the College known as The Broads playing field.

The PJ Lamb Met Station, which began operating in early October, comprises a portable NIWA mast (stayed) and research quality sensors compatible with the National Climate Network. This provides essential information for Council's air quality management – in particular temperature, humidity, wind speed and wind direction at a 10m height.

Council will be responsible for maintenance of the station, as well as management, acquisition, archiving and processing data from it. NIWA have been engaged to undertake annual calibration and regular maintenance of the station. Council will also be responsible for arranging the display of data from the met station on a website that is accessible by the parties. School students will benefit from the use of the data.

2015/16 Annual Report adopted

Council has adopted its 2015/16 annual report, with Mayor Rachel Reese highlighting a solid financial performance over the last 12 months.

"Our raised credit rating from Standard and Poor's from AA- to AA, gives assurance that the decisions we make are sensible ones," says Mayor Reese.

"I am committed to balancing the investment needed to make Nelson an even better place now and into the future, with affordability and financial prudence."

Those investments over the past 12 months have included a significant amount of work including the completion of the Maitai Pipeline duplication, the York Stream flood upgrade, the first stage of the Saxton Creek flood protection work, as well as nearing completion of the Corder Park pump station upgrade.

Major work has also continued across some of Nelson's most treasured facilities including the Trafalgar Centre, Rutherford Park redevelopment and the Suter Gallery.

Mayor Reese also highlights the importance of partnerships to deliver many of these key projects.

"One area that I have been very focused on is working closely with the community in a partnership approach to ensure our city continues to thrive.

"An example of seeing success in this space is our biodiversity project, Nelson Nature, where we are working closely with other agencies to restore the region's natural environment.

"We have had a successful year, and it is thanks to a team of people - councillors, officers, volunteers, and those who call Nelson home - who continue to work in close partnership to make Nelson an even better place."

What a festival!

The 2016 Nelson Arts Festival saw the city come alive with art and performance filling the streets, the stages and the hearts and minds of Nelson. This year's festival was better than ever with world class shows, thrilled audiences and fantastic reviews.

The festival returned to the Suter Theatre after its extensive refurbishment. Founders Heritage Park came in to its own as art gallery and outdoor studio, with The Billboard Project artists working every day under the public gaze, and a retrospective of Anne Rush's installations delighting audiences in the Granary and Mainstage.

The Masked Parade drew the crowds with its 'Flights of Fancy' theme, as people of all ages from tiny tots up, danced, twirled, drummed and swirled their way through the city streets.

This year's Page & Blackmore Readers and Writers events were well supported. Author Witi Ihimaera was a warm and welcoming opening act; The Thinking Brunch got people talking – and thinking – and with authors like Helene Wong, Laurence Fearnley and Jillian Sullivan, and poet Hera Lindsay Bird on stage there was something to interest everyone.

Festivals Team Leader Axel de Maupeou said the festival had been one to remember.

"We'd like to thank our sponsors, as always, the volunteers and crew, the audiences and the performers for taking part in a Festival that delivered on so many levels."
