

Tō Tātou Whakatū Our Nelson

A blossoming friendship:

50 years with Miyazu

This spring, Nelson will celebrate a momentous milestone with our sister city, Miyazu.

Miyazu is Nelson's longest-standing sister city, and the relationship has grown over nearly five decades through shared culture, hospitality, and genuine connection. The bond between the two cities is grounded in mutual respect and a long history that continues to offer meaningful opportunities for cultural learning, school exchanges, community visits, and cultural celebrations, enriching life in both Nelson and Miyazu.

Nelson Miyazu Sister City Association Chairperson Linley Smith says it is wonderful to be celebrating 50 years of the Nelson Miyazu sister city relationship.

"This friendship was started due to the similarities between the Nelson Boulder Bank and the Miyazu sand bridge Amanohashidate and has endured over the years thanks to successive mayors from both cities and the dedicated sister city association members."

Five decades later, that friendship has grown into one of New Zealand's longest-standing sister city relationships. This year's Cherry Blossom Festival at Miyazu Garden on Saturday 26 September, 11am–3pm, will celebrate this five decade milestone. A delegation from Miyazu including Mayor Kizaki will be joining the celebration as well as the Ambassador of Japan. There will be Japanese and other ethnic food stalls, music and cultural performances for the community to enjoy as well as the chance to join in the Miyazu dance. Linley Smith encourages Nelson locals to come and celebrate this relationship with our guests from Japan.

"Sister city relationships began to bring connection and understanding between other countries and cultures, so I feel it is important to celebrate this milestone by showcasing and sharing Japanese culture, food, and entertainment with the community," says Linley.

There will also be opportunities to discover more about Japan and Nelson's sister city relationship, with displays at Elma Turner Library and Civic House, alongside a bonsai exhibition at Founders Heritage Park.

Come along, enjoy the blossoms and help celebrate 50 years of friendship between Nelson and Miyazu.

Council to decide on Civic Hub location

Consultation on the future site of Nelson's new Community Hub, Library and Civic Space concluded on Sunday, with more than 1200 Nelsonians submitting their preferred location for the city's new Civic Hub.

The six-week Community Hub, Library and Civic Space consultation put forward three options that would see Civic House and Elma Turner Library, both buildings nearing the end of their useful lives, combined into a single facility.

The options put forward for consultation were refurbishing Civic House alongside the Savings Bank and State Advances sites or building new on Collingwood Street or Church Street.

Deputy Mayor and City Revitalisation Chair Pete Rainey says the level of engagement exceeded his expectations.

"I want to thank Nelsonians for getting in and becoming engaged. It's great to see people are passionate about this process - there's been rigorous discussion about the pros and cons of each of the sites, which is good, that gives us real confidence that we're doing something that's got people's interest."

Elected members and Council staff have been out at the Nelson Market every weekend since consultation opened, and a public meeting, attended by more than 100 people, was also held during the consultation period.

Questions have ranged from parking and access at each site, to how upfront and long-term costs compare, and why the project has to go ahead now.

Rainey says people have approached him directly to talk about the project too, including at the supermarket.

The consultation had landed during a tough economic time for many households and some people had suggested Council should do nothing at all. But continuing to patch up ageing buildings would also have a significant impact on finances, he says.

"I do acknowledge that times are really tight, but we can't kick the can down the road any longer. We've got to make a provision - if we delay the decision, it's going to cost the city even more in the long term."

Elected members will now weigh the consultation feedback alongside further technical, financial and planning advice before deliberating. Once a preferred location is chosen, the budget for the 2027–2037 Long Term Plan will be confirmed. Council staff will collate the submissions, including any late submissions that come in this week, and present the results to Council. A decision is expected to be made by the end of the year. All submissions to the consultation will soon be made public and will be available on Shape Nelson.

For Rainey, the decision on location is just the beginning – the next phase is when the creative conversation starts.

"This is an enormously exciting project for Nelson. Once the site is confirmed, we can move from debating where it goes to shaping what happens inside it.

"A community hub should reflect the community it serves. That creates a fantastic opportunity for Nelsonians to help determine the activities, services and spaces it provides — and how it can become a place where people genuinely want to gather.

"There's no question we're on a revitalisation journey at the moment and that is a positive sign of confidence, investment and progress for Nelson."

Giving Bridge Street's old benches a new home

As part of Bridge to Better, we're replacing all the street furniture on Bridge Street. When we removed the old bench seats, we found eight were still in great shape so, rather than scrap them, we're giving them a second life across the eBus network.

Over the coming weeks, you'll see these benches pop up at:

- Prices Pharmacy
- Franklyn Street
- 132 Nayland Road
- St Vincent Street, near Toi Toi Street
- Halifax Street, outside Woolworths

We've also heard from the community that a bus shelter would be handy on Vanguard Street — so we're relocating one there, outside New World.

Your Civil Defence Centre's getting a new name

Civil Defence Centres are now called Emergency Assistance Centres | Te Taiwhanga Āwhina Ohotata. While the name has changed, our commitment to supporting people and communities when they need it most remains the same.

The new name better reflects what these centres provide: a place where people can access information, welfare support, practical assistance, and connections to agencies that can help during and after an emergency.

Emergency response is strongest when communities work together.

Alongside Emergency Assistance Centres, local communities can also establish their own community-led centres, creating a place for neighbours to connect, share information, check on one another, and support local recovery efforts.

Want to help your community be better prepared?

Start a conversation with your local community group, marae, residents' association, school, or neighbourhood network about how you could support one another before, during, and after an emergency.

Notice of the right to demand a poll on the electoral system

Notice is given under section 28 of the Local Electoral Act 2001 that Nelson City Council resolved on 3 September 2026 to continue to use the Single Transferable Vote (STV) electoral system for the 2028 and 2031 triennial elections.

Nelson City Council electors have the right to demand a poll on the electoral system to be used at the next two triennial general elections (2028 and 2031) for Nelson City Council.

The choice is between First Past the Post (FPP) and the Single Transferable Vote (STV) electoral systems. Unless a poll determines otherwise, Nelson City Council will continue to use the STV electoral system.

A valid demand for a poll must be:

- Made in writing
- Signed by at least 5 percent of eligible electors of Nelson City Council. This will require a minimum of 1,933 elector signatures
- Every elector who signs a demand must also set out their full name and the address for which they are qualified as an elector of Nelson City Council
- Delivered to the Nelson City Council office, Civic house, 100 Trafalgar Street, Nelson 7010 by 5pm Friday 11 December 2026.

Should a valid demand for a poll be received by 11 December 2026, the poll will be held no later than 28 March 2027, and will have effect for the 2028 and 2031 elections. If the valid demand for a poll is received after 11 December 2026, then the poll will be held after 28 March 2027, and will have effect for the 2031 and 2034 elections.

Mayor's Message

Nelson this month hosts the Mayor and guests from the Japanese city of Miyazu as well as the Japanese Ambassador to celebrate 50 years of Nelson's special sister city relationship with Miyazu.

Sister Cities were established by President Eisenhower to help build cultural understanding, inter-city diplomacy and peace after the horrors of World War II. Nelson's sister city link with Miyazu is the second oldest in NZ and reflects our city's long-term ethos of being outward looking, interested in other cultures and advocates for peace.

The initiative came about when Nelson MP Sir Stanley Whitehead, Speaker of the NZ Parliament, visited Japan and met Miyazu MP Shigesuburo Maeo, who was also Speaker of the Japanese Diet. Miyazu shares with Nelson a similar geographic feature with our Boulder Bank and their Amanohashidate. Their ambition was to build cultural understanding, enable people-to-people exchanges and grow economic links.

We have subsequently built a love and respect for the grace and culture of the people of Miyazu and Japan. Benefits include our Miyazu Garden, student exchanges, increased trade and investment and our annual Cherry Blossom Festival.

This month, the Ngā Aho Rau of 41 rangatahi from Nelson College and Nelson College for Girls travel to Japan to share culture and experiences. This is one of more than 30 exchanges that have occurred over the past 50 years.

Japan has also become Nelson's most important international investor through Sumitomo Forestry and Nissui. Sumitomo Forestry has more than $1 billion invested in Nelson Pine Industries and Tasman Forestry and employs over 270 people in the region. It is a generous supporter of our Tasman Mako, St John, Adam Chamber Music Festival and Hospice. Nissui owns 50% of Sealord. Japan has also, over the past 50 years, become a key market for our apples, kiwifruit, hops, seafood, wood and dairy products. This year's Cherry Blossom Festival at Miyazu Garden on 26 September, from 11am to 3pm, is a special celebration of the 50 years when we will host our Japanese guests. The free event includes stalls, music and cultural performances. Nelson's Bonsai Club have an exhibition in the Founders Heritage Park Jaycee Room from 9am to 4pm. You can also learn more about Miyazu from displays at Civic House and the Elma Turner Library.

HOMEGROWN CREATIVITY MEETS WORLD-CLASS PERFORMANCE

Our 2026 festival programme is a joyful celebration of creativity, connection and imagination. From world-class theatre and breathtaking circus to inspiring kōrero, live music, comedy, visual arts and large-scale community celebrations, there's something for everyone to discover.

Sometimes playful, sometimes thoughtprovoking; this year's programme invites audiences to step away from the everyday and experience the joy of gathering together through the arts.

Opening the festival is Tiri: Te Araroa Woman Far Walking, Auckland Theatre Company's powerful adaptation of Witi Ihimaera Smiler's landmark work. Award-winning actors Miriama McDowell and Nī Dekkers-Reihana lead audiences on a sweeping theatrical journey through Aotearoa's history.

Exclusive to this year's Nelson Arts Festival, acclaimed Canadian company Machine de Cirque arrives direct from Québec for its only South Island performance. At Theatre Royal, YMCĀ, a bold new work from Atamira Dance Company and choreographer Oli Mathiesen, reimagining the iconic Village People through Māori contemporary dance and irresistible disco energy.

Our free community celebrations are bigger than ever. Experience The Big Swing Street Party, featuring the New Zealand debut of Ian Pidd's spectacular nine-metre-high Swing, before heading to Tāhunanui Beach for The Gathering Tide, a breathtaking sunset performance bringing together up to 100 local participants.

For lovers of local stories, discover Echoes, an immersive theatre experience exploring the history of Fairfield House, and Tāhae: Stolen From the Museum, a powerful exhibition celebrating the reclamation of taonga through the work of Te Taihu artists at Tāwera.

Music lovers can enjoy brand-new music from The Phoenix Foundation at Neudorf Vineyards, the dynamic sound of Byllie-jean, and the Māori futurism-inspired concert Ā Mua. Don't miss award-winning comedy, immersive theatre and unforgettable family adventures as venues across Whakatū come alive over 11 inspiring days.

"From Booker Prize-winning authors and world-class circus to bold Māori storytelling and unforgettable community experiences, this ambitious 11-day festival promises unforgettable moments around every corner"

ENVIRONMENTAL GRANTS

OPEN

Help our environment thrive with an Environmental Grant

Do you look after a stream, plant natives, or run trap lines in your neighbourhood? Council's Environmental Grant Programme could help you do more.

The grants support projects that protect, enhance and restore the health of Whakatū Nelson's environment. This year's priorities include wetland and stream-side restoration, pest control, protecting Significant Natural Areas, reducing erosion on farmland and forestry land, and restoring our coastal areas.

Support can be money, professional ecological advice, trapping equipment or native plants. Individuals and groups working within Nelson city boundaries can apply.

Up to $20,000 is available per project in any one year. Funds are limited, so applications for up to $5,000 are more likely to succeed. Erosion control projects are the exception and can seek more.

Applications open on 7 September 2026 and close on 5 October 2026. Site visits and assessments follow in October and November, with agreements signed in December.

Find out more by scanning the QR code or visiting nelson.govt.nz/environmental-grant-programme

Lifejacket rules are going nationwide!

If you have been out on the water in Nelson in the last few years, you will know the rule. On a boat 6 metres or under, everyone wears a lifejacket. No exceptions.

That rule has been part of Nelson's Navigation Safety Bylaw since 2019, and Tasman has the same one. Now the rest of Aotearoa New Zealand is catching up. Maritime NZ is updating the national Navigation Safety Rules (Part 91) so lifejackets must be worn on small craft everywhere in the country.

There is a good reason the rule focuses on smaller boats. Kayaks, dinghies, jet skis and small runabouts are where most boating deaths happen. Things go wrong fast, and a lifejacket you are already wearing buys you time. One stowed under a seat does not.

The national change did not happen on its own. Harbourmasters around the country, including our own team in Whakatū, have pushed for a consistent rule for years, working alongside Maritime NZ and water safety groups. As our Harbourmaster puts it: "We have seen first hand how a lifejacket changes the outcome when someone ends up in the water. A national rule means the same protection for people wherever they launch," says Stu Whitehouse Nelson Harbourmaster.

For Nelson boaties, nothing changes. Keep doing what you are doing. Wear your lifejacket, make sure it fits, and check it before each trip. And if you head out of the region this summer, the rule now travels with you.

Councillor's Comment

Electrification – a no-brainer for Nelson

Blink and you might miss it: Nelson's best chance to save money, cut emissions and build resilience, all at once. The electric revolution is in full swing, and last month's Electrify Nelson Expo showed people are paying attention.

The numbers stack up so clearly that the question has shifted from "why should I?" to "how do I start?" That came through in the political debate, where every candidate wanted a piece of the action. But why wait for politicians when so many of us have something to gain right now?

Households across the Nelson region spend $430,000 a day on fossil fuels. Electrifying could save the average household around $7,300 a year once the switch is made, or about $3,000 a year including up-front costs - roughly $210 million a year across the region, and more than $1 billion in net savings by 2040.

Nelson City Council is moving quickly. Our fleet now includes five full EVs, four plug-in hybrids and two hybrids. Since the eBus launched in 2023, passenger journeys have climbed from 462,000 to 963,000 a year.

We're also installing solar on council and community facilities for the purpose of community resilience: $950,000 of investment, with $620,000 from Council and $330,000 from EECA. We're adding batteries, so the buildings can run as Civil Defence Centres in an emergency.

The proposed Ratepayer Assistance Scheme, a nationwide initiative, would give households here access to low-cost loans. But real change starts with each of us asking where we could take advantage now, be it solar, EVs, heating, water, cooktops and more.

Most banks now offer low-interest finance to those with a mortgage. Schemes like WorkRide help employees electrify, with tax savings as a bonus. Plug-in solar is just around the corner, and some landlords are even splitting the benefit of solar with their tenants, so it's worth asking the question.

People often ask if the grid can cope. Here's a fun fact: if a family of five swapped its electric hot water cylinder for a heat pump one, the annual energy savings would run their EV for a year.

If you're keen to take the plunge but don't know where to start, ask a friend, ask a neighbour, or ask your local city councillor.

You can always contact me via email
